President Wilson Unofficially Informed Next Teutonic Note Will Be Such as to Meet With Approval of the United States—Indications Are That Germany Will Not Insist Upon Past Contentions—No Official Report Yet Received by Kaiser.

By Associated Press. Washington, August 25. — President Wilson has been informed unofficially from sources close to Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, that the next communication from Berlin on the sinking of the White Star liner Arabic will be of a character satisfactory to the United States.

Coming close on the telegram which the ambassador forwarded to the State Department yesterday by direction of his government declaring it was not the intention of Germany that any American lives should be sacrificed in the sinking of the ship, this development was regarded as indicating that Germany would meet some proposal satisfactory to the United States respecting submarine attacks on vessels purely of a passenger carrying nature.

Officials are at a loss to conjecture what the German government will propose, but the assurance that there is every desire in Berlin to avoid a break with the United States has relieved the situation very much.

Heretofore Germany has contended that neutral lives should not be sacrificed in the sinking of a ship, especially those carrying war munitions. In its reply to the first Lusitania note, Germany proposed to designate certain ships which would be guaranteed against attack, but the American government flatly rejected the proposal.

Officials were eager to know what position Germany would now take without surrendering her contended right to submarine warfare against enemy commerce.

The aim of President Wilson and all administration officials is to avoid a rupture with Germany, but to do so without any surrender of any neutral rights for which the United States has been contending in the name of international law and humanity was reflected by officials informally while discussing this latest phase of the situation.

They were hopeful that a disavowal of the submarine commander's act in sinking the Arabic without warning would be forthcoming and that the administration is ready to listen to Berlin's next words.

Berlin, via London, August 25.—The American Ambassador, James W. Gerard, called on foreign minister von Jagow, last evening and asked for information concerning the sinking of the steamer Arabic.

Mr. Gerard learned that the government had no official news whatever on the subject.

The only information which the government has is that contained in newspaper dispatches from abroad, which threw little light on the circumstances attending the disaster of the steamer. It is not even clear whether the disaster was due to a torpedo or a mine and whether in case the vessel was torpedoed there were special circumstances which impelled the commander of the submarine to attack the Arabic.

RUSS LEAVE OSSOWETZ

By Associated Press. Petrograd, August 25.—In accordance with orders received from army authorities the garrison at Ossowetz joined the Russian field army on August 22, evacuating the fortress after blowing up the permanent fort, burning the wooden structures and removing or crippling the guns, thus ending a year of gallant defense of the principal crossing of the Bobr river.

Bialystok is said to be still in Russian hands, but a large part of the railway from the north and west is now in the hands of the Germans, and it is expected that they will make every effort to extend their operations toward Grsdno, the next fortress in importance in this region.

BLAME FOR B. & O. WRECK ANNOUNCED

By Associated Press. Columbus, August 25.—Neglect and violation of rules upon the part of members of both crews were the direct causes of the wreck of the B. & O. passenger and freight train on the same road at Orient, August 12, as a result of which seven passengers were killed.

This was the finding of the inspectors in the employ of the State Utilities Commission announced today after an exhaustive investigation. The conductor and flagman of the passenger train are alleged to have violated the rules in regard to the methods of protecting their train.

Failure of the engineer of the freight to control the speed of his train is held to have been a contributing cause. Had the coaches been of steel instead of wood, the report says, no fatalities would have occurred.

Situation of Russians at Brest-Litovsk Reported Hazardous.

GERMANS PRESSING ADVANCE

Great Fortress of Brest-Litovsk Slowly Being Surrounded and the One Railroad Left as a Means of Retreat Is Menaced by the Kaiser's Troops. Peasants Compelled to Leave Homes as Teutons Advance.

London, Aug. 25.—The combined Austro-Hungarian and German forces fighting at the southern extremity of the Russian front have forced their way far to the east of the Bug and, says a dispatch from Vienna, cavalry forces entered the important railway center at Kovel.

This means that the southern railway from Brest-Litovsk to Kiev and Moscow is rendered practically impassable as a means of retreat for the Russian forces holding Brest-Litovsk, if it has not indeed actually been cut and thus rendered absolutely impassable. Such being the case, the situation of the Russian forces at and about Brest-Litovsk has become hazardous, to say the least, and more especially so because the one line of flight now left is in serious danger itself.

At Brest-Litovsk itself, according to advices from Berlin, the Austrian and German troops are making steady advances. The town is slowly being surrounded on a wide semi-circle which extends north, west and south of the defenses. The one railroad left as a means of retreat for the Russian troops in this vicinity runs east from the town for a distance of some fifteen miles, when it separates into two roads, one running to Moscow by a northern and the other by a southern route. It is apparently the German intention to reach this road at a point east of Brest-Litovsk and, by making travel over it impossible, thus cut off and trap the Russian forces at Brest-Litovsk.

At points to the north of Brest-Litovsk the German official statement speaks of gains by the army groups under both Prince Leopold of Bavaria and Field Marshal Von Hindenburg. On the entire front more than 9,000 Russian soldiers have been made prisoners during the last twenty-four hours.

The Russian authorities are confronted with a very serious problem, say dispatches from Petrograd, in the vast number of peasants who have been compelled to leave their homes and move inland as the Germans have advanced.

DEPEW BUSY AT 81 YEARS

New York, Aug. 25.—Ex-Senator Chauncey M. Depew, who was eighty-one last April, came back to work in his room in the Grand Central Terminal after a vacation in the Berkshires. Mr. Depew said he was glad to get back to work. "My work is my life," he observed, seriously. As chairman of the directors of the New York Central he has a good deal of work to do. "What do you think of the return of the Progressives?" he was asked. "There will be only one party in 1916," he replied, "and we will all be united on a platform and with a candidate satisfactory to everybody. We will not only be united, but we will go before the country and we will win."

Mrs. Ambruso is in a serious condition.

TROUBLE FEARED IN SANTO DOMINGO

Washington, Aug. 25.—While government officials refuse to admit that trouble is imminent in Haiti and that there are signs of unrest in Santo Domingo, orders issued here indicate that the United States is again apprehensive of revolutionary activities in the two republics. The cruiser Tennessee is about to start for Port au Prince with a detachment of 350 marines on board. She is also carrying twelve three-inch machine guns. The gunboat Marietta, which is now at Progreso, Mexico, has been ordered to proceed to Santo Domingo without delay. The gunboat Nashville has departed for Port de Paix, near Cape Haitien, and the gunboat Sacramento has been ordered to proceed from New Orleans to Port au Prince. Officials decline to throw any light on the situation in Santo Domingo.

RED HOT PROTEST

Washington, Aug. 25.—The United States will make a vigorous protest against that provision in the British decree placing cotton on the contraband list that puts the burden of proof on the American shipper that the product is not destined for an enemy country. This provision is held to be contrary to international law, which, state department officials say, requires that a belligerent seizing a cargo consigned to a neutral country must be able to show that the goods are intended for an enemy.

ASSUMES CHARGE OF LITTLE ISLAND

permanent order shall be restored. It has proposed a convention to the new government of the republic under which the United States shall take charge of the custom houses of the republic and administer Haiti's finances under an American receiver general and American employees. In other words, the United States will establish a financial protectorate over Haiti similar to that now exercised in Santo Domingo.

It is understood that the new Haitian government headed by President D'Artiguenave, who was inducted into office shortly after the arrival of the American forces in Haiti, is entirely agreeable to the arrangement. The treaty will be opposed to the point of armed activity by the followers of Dr. Bobo, the deposed Haitian leader. Bobo is an enemy of the United States and bitterly antagonistic to the D'Artiguenave government.

The terms of the proposed treaty were made public at Port au Prince.

"It was the heaviest rain and the fiercest wind I've ever witnessed here," said Professor Lord of Ohio State university observatory.

EASTMAN COMPANY HELD A MONOPOLY

Buffalo, Aug. 25.—An interlocutory decree declaring the Eastern Kodak company of Rochester "an illegal monopoly which unduly and unreasonably restrains interstate trade and commerce," was handed down in the United States district court by District Judge Hazel. Though it is asserted no irregular hardship would result from separation of the present business into two or more independent companies, Judge Hazel says it is not intended to indicate dissolution, division or reorganization of the business of the defendants, but to give them opportunity to present to the court on Nov. 9 a plan for the abrogation of the monopoly. Judge Hazel holds the defendants unlawfully controlled interstate trade in photographic supplies but not in moving pictures film.

TO DARDANELLES

HEAVY BOATS NOT ENGAGED

London, Aug. 25.—It now appears that no heavy vessels were employed during the battle in the Gulf of Riga by either side. The Germans apparently undertook the operations with a number of torpedo boats and some light cruisers, while the Russian fleet consisted of the same type of craft. It would further appear that the object of the German maneuvers were to sweep the entrance to the gulf of the mines, and that this object was in itself successful. No doubt it was hoped that the Russian fleet might be destroyed, a hope not gratified, and that a small body of men might be landed at Pernov to worry the Russian armies farther south.

Indiana Man's Kidney Troubles Disappear

"After suffering many months from kidney trouble," writes W. R. Fox, of Noblesville, Ind., "and after having tried many remedies and prescriptions, I purchased a box of Foley Kidney Pills. They not only did me more good than any other remedy I had ever used, but they positively set my kidneys right. Other members of my family have used same with similar results."

From every state in the Union come unsolicited letters telling of satisfactory results from Foley Kidney Pills. When the kidneys become clogged up, get sluggish, and strain out of the blood only part of the poisonous waste matter, the balance remains in the system, through the system, uric acid forms, and swollen, painful joints and muscles are the result.

Foley Kidney Pills cleanse and tone up the kidneys, so that backache, rheumatism, sore muscles, aching joints, annoying bladder disorders and irregularities soon disappear.

Situation of Russians at Brest-Litovsk Reported Hazardous.

GERMANS PRESSING ADVANCE

Great Fortress of Brest-Litovsk Slowly Being Surrounded and the One Railroad Left as a Means of Retreat Is Menaced by the Kaiser's Troops. Peasants Compelled to Leave Homes as Teutons Advance.

London, Aug. 25.—The combined Austro-Hungarian and German forces fighting at the southern extremity of the Russian front have forced their way far to the east of the Bug and, says a dispatch from Vienna, cavalry forces entered the important railway center at Kovel.

This means that the southern railway from Brest-Litovsk to Kiev and Moscow is rendered practically impassable as a means of retreat for the Russian forces holding Brest-Litovsk. If it has not indeed actually been cut and thus rendered absolutely impassable. Such being the case, the situation of the Russian forces at and about Brest-Litovsk has become hazardous, to say the least, and more especially so because the one line of flight now left is in serious danger itself.

At Brest-Litovsk itself, according to advices from Berlin, the Austrian and German troops are making steady advances. The town is slowly being surrounded on a wide semi-circle which extends north, west and south of the defenses. The one railroad left as a means of retreat for the Russian troops in this vicinity runs east from the town for a distance of some fifteen miles, when it separates into two roads, one running to Moscow by a northern and the other by a southern route. It is apparently the German intention to reach this road at a point east of Brest-Litovsk and, by making travel over it impossible, thus cut off and trap the Russian forces at Brest-Litovsk.

At points to the north of Brest-Litovsk the German official statement speaks of gains by the army groups under both Prince Leopold of Bavaria and Field Marshal Von Hindenburg. On the entire front more than 9,000 Russian soldiers have been made prisoners during the last twenty-four hours.

The Russian authorities are confronted with a very serious problem, say dispatches from Petrograd, in the vast number of peasants who have been compelled to leave their homes and move inland as the Germans have advanced.

TROUBLE FEARED IN SANTO DOMINGO

Washington, Aug. 25.—While government officials refuse to admit that trouble is imminent in Haiti and that there are signs of unrest in Santo Domingo, orders issued here indicate that the United States is again apprehensive of revolutionary activities in the two republics. The cruiser Tennessee is about to start for Port au Prince with a detachment of 350 marines on board. She is also carrying twelve three-inch machine guns. The gunboat Marietta, which is now at Progreso, Mexico, has been ordered to proceed to Santo Domingo without delay. The gunboat Nashville has departed for Port de Paix, near Cape Haitien, and the gunboat Sacramento has been ordered to proceed from New Orleans to Port au Prince. Officials decline to throw any light on the situation in Santo Domingo.

RED HOT PROTEST

Washington, Aug. 25.—The United States will make a vigorous protest against that provision in the British decree placing cotton on the contraband list that puts the burden of proof on the American shipper that the product is not destined for an enemy country. This provision is held to be contrary to international law, which, state department officials say, requires that a belligerent seizing a cargo consigned to a neutral country must be able to show that the goods are intended for an enemy.

LABOR OF WORLD IS FOR PEACE

New York, Aug. 25.—British labor unions and leaders of the British Independent Labor party are beginning a campaign for the establishment of an international tribunal to arrange terms of peace for the nations of Europe now at war. This campaign is not to be merely a local or national one, but is to include every country, belligerent or neutral, on earth. The invitation to join the movement reached the officers of the National Labor unions in this city. The appeal contemplates a laying aside of all differences on the part of labor throughout the world, in order that peace may be gained.

TURKS CHESTY

Constantinople, Aug. 25.—All attacks by the Anglo-French forces on the Gallipoli peninsula since Aug. 6 have broken down under the Turkish fire, according to an official assertion of the war office, which denies British and French reports of successes. A Turkish success against the British on the Persian gulf front also is announced.

EASTMAN COMPANY HELD A MONOPOLY

Buffalo, Aug. 25.—An interlocutory decree declaring the Eastern Kodak company of Rochester "an illegal monopoly which unduly and unreasonably restrains interstate trade and commerce," was handed down in the United States district court by District Judge Hazel. Though it is asserted no irregular hardship would result from separation of the present business into two or more independent companies, Judge Hazel says it is not intended to indicate dissolution, division or reorganization of the business of the defendants, but to give them opportunity to present to the court on Nov. 9 a plan for the abrogation of the monopoly. Judge Hazel holds the defendants unlawfully controlled interstate trade in photographic supplies but not in moving pictures film.

DELICATE POINT

Cincinnati, Aug. 25.—The question whether the wrecking of the Pennsylvania train near Terrace Park on July 7, the night of the windstorm that cost several lives, was what is judicially known as an "act of God," for which the railroad company can not be held liable, will be determined by the courts. Two suits involving the question have been filed.

FRENCH ADVANCE

Paris, Aug. 25.—The French troops attacked in the Vosges and made further advances on the heights east of the Fecht and to the north of Schratzma Ennele. Numerous and violent counter attacks were made by the Germans, but they were unable to dislodge the French from their newly acquired positions.

TO DARDANELLES

Rome, Aug. 25.—No announcement was made respecting the destination of the strong expeditionary forces which left various Italian ports. Nothing, however, has been hinted that would shake the popular belief that these forces are on their way to join the British and French troops at the Dardanelles.

HEAVY BOATS NOT ENGAGED

London, Aug. 25.—It now appears that no heavy vessels were employed during the battle in the Gulf of Riga by either side. The Germans apparently undertook the operations with a number of torpedo boats and some light cruisers, while the Russian fleet consisted of the same type of craft. It would further appear that the object of the German maneuvers were to sweep the entrance to the gulf of the mines, and that this object was in itself successful. No doubt it was hoped that the Russian fleet might be destroyed, a hope not gratified, and that a small body of men might be landed at Pernov to worry the Russian armies farther south.

New York, Aug. 25.—Ex-Senator Chauncey M. Depew, who was eighty-one last April, came back to work in his room in the Grand Central Terminal after a vacation in the Berkshires. Mr. Depew said he was glad to get back to work. "My work is my life," he observed, seriously. As chairman of the directors of the New York Central he has a good deal of work to do. "What do you think of the return of the Progressives?" he was asked. We will not only be united, but we will go before the country and we will win."

ASSUMES CHARGE OF LITTLE ISLAND

TIRED OF DISORDER IN BLACK REPUBLIC

Uncle Sam Establishes Financial Protectorate Over Haiti.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The United States has decided to take over the affairs of Haiti and administer them for the benefit of the people of that republic for a period of at least ten years. This government has grown tired of the constant disorder in Haiti and has intervened to the end that permanent order shall be restored. It has proposed a convention to the new government of the republic under which the United States shall take charge of the custom houses of the republic and administer Haiti's finances under an American receiver general and American employees. In other words, the United States will establish a financial protectorate over Haiti similar to that now exercised in Santo Domingo.

It is understood that the new Haitian government headed by President D'Artigue, who was inducted into office shortly after the arrival of the American forces in Haiti, is entirely agreeable to the arrangement. The treaty will be opposed to the point of armed activity by the followers of Dr. Bobo, the deposed Haitian leader. Bobo is an enemy of the United States and bitterly antagonistic to the D'Artigue government.

The terms of the proposed treaty were made public at Port au Prince.

EATING COMMANDED

New York, Aug. 25.—Mrs. Julian Heath, president of the National Housewives' league, started a campaign to get everybody to eat all the peaches they can, and those they can't eat, they can can. Streets, business houses and residences on the North and West Sides were flooded, wires and trees felled and streetcar traffic suspended. "It was the heaviest rain and the fiercest wind I've ever witnessed here," said Professor Lord of Ohio State university observatory.

King Cotton and Gold

In order to relieve, so far as possible, any financial distress in the southern states as a result of Great Britain's order placing cotton on the list of contraband articles, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo has announced that thirty million dollars in gold will be placed in the reserve banks of the south to finance the cotton planters until they can realize on their crop.

Great Britain fully realizes the effect of the latest order and to assist in relieving against the financial stringency in the south has contracted for vast consignments of cotton. The government of King George is aware of the great importance of keeping on good terms, commercially, with the southern planters and while feeling that the necessities of war compel the issuance of the order has, looking forward to a restoration of peace, done all possible to soften the effect on those whom it was not intended to harm.

It is the order of Secretary McAdoo, however, which is the cause of the most favorable comment.

The fact that this nation is able, under the new national banking laws, to absolutely prevent financial disaster in the south on account of a derangement of commerce, an almost unprecedented calamity and one which could not have been foreseen or its effect guarded against, is the highest possible proof of the efficiency of the new financial measure.

In a comparatively short time after its enactment the absolute sufficiency of that law is conclusively demonstrated, and acknowledgment of the wisdom of its sponsors compelled.

The German Funds

The positive position assumed by Karl Helfferich, secretary of the treasury, opposing a sentiment in the German Reichstag for a continuation of the war and an expansion of territory, and his reasons therefor, are startling to the world.

The secretary of the treasury for Germany announced that the new German war loans would completely exhaust the resources of the nation and any further increase of the war debt would bankrupt the nation. In view of that fact Dr. Helfferich urged that it would be wiser for the Reichstag and the cabinet to exert their energies more in an endeavor to secure for Germany an honorable peace than to expend every energy toward a prolongation of the struggle. Dr. Helfferich was reinforced by General von Moltke, former chief of the general staff, who urged that the suggestions of the secretary of the treasury be adopted.

On the eve of the decisive defeat of the German navy in the Gulf of Riga encounter and the consequent failure of the plans of the army and navy to establish a military base, imperilling the whole offensive campaign in Russia, the announcement is not without deep significance.

The Reichstag and the cabinet refused to heed the advice of the secretary of the treasury and the sentiment for prolonging the war prevailed overwhelmingly.

What the fate, politically, of the men who urged adoption of methods to bring about an honorable peace will be, is a matter of doubt, but it is not improbable that they will be required to retire in favor of men more in sympathy with the war party.

Germany's gravest danger since the war began is not so much the inability of her army and navy to combat their enemies in battle, as it is the failure of the resources of the nation to prove equal to the enormous expense.

Some idea of the cost of this war to Germany may be gathered from the fact that each month in this war Germany spends more than the entire cost of the war of eighteen seventy with France.

At this terrific cost it will be seen that the bottom of any nation's exchequer would be reached in an amazingly short time. It is not remarkable, therefore, that the officials who are charged with the duty of providing the sinews of war are fearful of the ultimate result.

The Menace of Rains

From Missouri and Iowa come reports of torrential rain falls, washouts and floods entailing damage to buildings, crops and heavy loss of life unprecedented even in those seasons of the year when heavy rain falls are expected.

For August the reports of present disasters there is no parallel in the history of the country.

In this section, while the destruction of life and property owing to flood and storm has not been heavy, the damage already sustained and that threatened to growing crops are enormous.

In Ohio there is a vast amount of wheat yet in the fields unthreshed, the hay crop was not all saved, and much of it that was baled or placed in the mow was not wholly cured.

The corn in the low places is a total failure and the prospect for a heavy yield on the higher ground is menaced by the continued rains.

If the heavy yield promised early in the season is to become a reality the weather man must see to it that we have dry weather and plenty of it soon.

Never were early summer conditions more promising for crops and never were late summer conditions more menacing to our hopes of harvest.

Poetry For Today

THE WOLF.

When the babe is in his cradle and
the gudeman in his bed,
And I cover up the embers on the
hearth,
And the frost creeps in upon us with
its silent, stealthy tread,
And the snow has hid the bare,
brown face of earth—
Then the wolf that in the daytime keeps his distance, hides and slinks,
Grows so bold that he dares to
sniffle at the door.
Is it fancy—do I sense him, through
the unprotected chinks?
Is that sound the deadly menace of his paw?
But I push the bolts in tighter, and
I steal into my bed,
And I listen till I hear his howl
afar—
Safe at least until tomorrow, for today we have been fed,
And the Wolf of Famine leaves us
as we are!

Luke McLuke Says

If a girl's hair is naturally curly she just hates to wear a hat when she goes downtown.

No matter how far down and out a man may be he can always truthfully brag that there was a time when he rode in his own carriage.

When a man wants a new hat he goes into a store for two minutes and comes out with an up to date lid on his dome. When a woman wants a new hat she goes into a store for an hour and tries on all the "creations" and comes out with some up to date ideas to use in making over the old lid she is wearing.

A single man thinks he is up against it when he comes home with a bun and has to chase the bed around the room for a while before he can catch it. But the real pleasant sensation is that experienced by the married man who wakes up in the morning with a dead mink in his mouth and then suddenly remembers that he forgot to take that pair of elbow length gloves out of his overcoat pocket before he came home.

That longing to pay board for the other half of the world is what causes all the trouble for our half of the world.

The fellow who doesn't know enough to write a capital "I" when he is writing about himself always knows enough to use a capital "I" when he is talking about himself.

Always remember that if you got all you prayed for there wouldn't be enough to go around.

The lad who gets a pass always knows that the show is rotten and always wonders why the railroad doesn't supply a better roadbed.

Adam blamed it on the woman. And when the rest of us get caught we can't think of a more original excuse.

A man often thinks of a lot of grand things he could do for his wife and his children if he didn't need the money for himself.

PENS OF THE PAST.

The Old Time Quill and the Art of Putting a Point on It.

Quill pens are no longer used except in rare old fashioned instances, but people still use "penknives"—you can see the name any day in the cutlery store windows—but they do not use them to make or mend pens. In fact, where is there a man or woman who knows how to put a point on a quill? It was once an art which every man had to master, though women were generally bad at it, as they are now at sharpening pencils.

In the old days the first question asked of a schoolmaster was the one whether he was skillful in pointing quills, for he had to sharpen the pens of his whole school and incidentally instruct his pupils in the art. Alas! There is no modern pen of steel or gold that is so smooth, so swift, so alluring as a good quill pen. The writer is very sure of that, for his father used to tell him so.

The art of handwriting has certainly declined since the quill pen went out of use. The old fellows could really write. We still pay them an unconscious tribute by calling a writer a "quill driver" and picturing the pen, whenever we have to make an abstract representation of it, as a quill.—New York Mail.

A Diplomatic Official.

During the reign of Emperor Napoleon III. he and the empress visited Normandy and had arranged to spend a couple of days at Evreux. M. Janvier de la Monte, who was the prefect, learned that the revolutionaries intended to hiss the sovereigns as they passed, and so he summoned the leaders of the movement and told them that he knew of their plot. "If you carry out your plan," said he to them, "you will get six months in prison. If you do not your friends will accuse you of cowardice and treason. As a way out of the difficulty I propose to lock you up at once until the emperor has gone." The conspirators accepted the terms offered them, and so the emperor was greeted only by cheers, as the revolutionaries, frightened at the arrest of their chiefs, had not dared to utter a sound.

Extremes in Iceland.

In Iceland nature seems to have deserted all her ordinary operations and to have worked only in combining the most terrific extremes which her powers can command. Nor is she yet silent. After the lapse of ages the fire of the volcano still bursts out among the regions of eternal snow, and the impetuous thundering of the geysers continues to disturb the stillness of the surrounding solitude.

Ohio Cities Gas Preferred Stock

7% NET RETURNS ON MONEY INVESTED AT PRESENT PRICE

Dividends $5.25 per share per year. If bought at—

75	nets	7%
80	nets	6¼%
87½	nets	6%
Par	nets	5¼%

The preferred stock is protected by 5½ million dollars common stock paying 5% dividends and earning them twice over. The annual report, recently issued, shows net surplus earnings of $880,000 to pay preferred dividends of $380,000.

COMMON STOCK—AN OPPORTUNITY.

Ohio Cities Gas common can now be purchased around $90 per share. Dividend rate at the present time is 5%, but it is pretty generally understood that the dividend will be increased to 6% in the forthcoming quarter.

The business of the Ohio Cities Gas Co. is primarily furnishing gas to some 65,000 consumers in the cities of Columbus and Springfield. Its earnings from strictly gas sources are sufficient to pay dividends on both preferred and common stocks at the present rate. In addition to its gas properties the Ohio Cities Gas Co. owns the Columbus Oil & Fuel Co., which comprises 60,000 acres of oil leases in the State of Ohio, and The Columbus Producing Co., comprising about 50,000 acres of oil leases in the State of West Virginia.

UNEXPLORED WEALTH IN OIL.

The great find of the company in West Virginia last December has uncovered a new and vast pool of oil which is now producing as much oil as all of the company's Ohio wells combined. The West Virginia properties are located in the Cabin Creek district, Kanawha County, 25 miles from Charleston, on a branch of the C. & O. Railroad. Six wells have been brought in with no dry holes thus far, and four more are now drilling and will be brought in during the next two months.

This is the highest grade Pennsylvania crude oil, and grades so high, in fact, that the company is getting a premium over the established price for Pennsylvania crude, the price on which has been advanced on two separate occasions in the past week, the first to $1.45 and later to $1.55 per barrel. Further advances are altogether probable.

The oil production of the Ohio Cities Gas Co. is, at present, about 1,000 barrels per day. On account of the advance in oil prices the development work is now being pushed vigorously and the production of the company will undoubtedly be doubled within the next year. The advance of 20c per barrel is equivalent to 1% additional earnings on the common stock. There are six wells in both fields which are due to come in within the next 30 days, and new locations are being made and additional wells drilled as rapidly as possible.

COMMON STOCK—ADVANCING IN PRICE.

We do not pretend to forecast "how high" Ohio Cities Gas Common will go. We look forward to higher prices, commensurate with its intrinsic value and its increment from this time as the oil properties in West Virginia develop. We ourselves confidently look for the stock to sell at 150, and shall not be surprised if it goes to $200 per share.

The situation in Ohio Cities Gas stock may be summarized as follows:

1. The stocks are listed on the Cincinnati and Columbus Stock Exchanges and can be purchased from any reputable broker in either city. At the present time these stocks are more active on the local Stock Exchanges than any others.

2. The dividend rate on the common stock will in all probability be increased from 5% to 6% in the forthcoming quarter.

3. As shown in the annual report of the company to its stockholders, the common stock earned in the past fiscal year its dividend practically two times over.

4. The oil output in the past few months has increased from 500 barrels to 1,000 barrels per day and will be further increased as additional wells are brought in. It is estimated that the company will have 2,000 barrels production within the ensuing year.

5. Ohio Cities Gas common at $90 per share is a far better purchase than it was a year ago at 65, for since that time the new wealth that has come to the company will result in doubling the net earnings.

6. The common stock is earning 10% and paying 5% dividends. It is good opinion that it will be earning 20% and paying 10% dividends within a reasonable time. It will pay an investor to investigate Ohio Cities Gas stocks.

The earnings of the several properties owned by the Ohio Cities Gas Company for the past fiscal year follows:
Net profits from operation $1,063,628 56
Taxes paid 80,760 55

Net earnings 982,868 01
Interest charges 101,919 42

Surplus earnings 880,957 59
Dividends paid (preferred and common) 630,123 75

Balance over dividends $250,833 84

Write or telephone for official annual report of the company, and descriptive circular of these stocks. We are prepared to quote current quotations and buy or sell the stock at existing market prices.

King Cotton and Gold

In order to relieve, so far as possible, any financial distress in the southern states as a result of Great Britain's order placing cotton on the list of contraband articles, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo has announced that thirty million dollars in gold will be placed in the reserve banks of the south to finance the cotton planters until they can realize on their crop.

Great Britain fully realizes the effect of the latest order and to assist in relieving against the financial stringency in the south has contracted for vast consignments of cotton. The government of King George is aware of the great importance of keeping on good terms, commercially, with the southern planters and while feeling that the necessities of war compel the issuance of the order has, looking forward to a restoration of peace, done all possible to soften the effect on those whom it was not intended to harm.

It is the order of Secretary McAdoo, however, which is the cause of the most favorable comment.

The fact that this nation is able, under the new national banking laws, to absolutely prevent financial disaster in the south on account of a derangement of commerce, an almost unprecedented calamity and one which could not have been foreseen or its effect guarded against, is the highest possible proof of the efficiency of the new financial measure.

In a comparatively short time after its enactment the absolute sufficiency of that law is conclusively demonstrated, and acknowledgment of the wisdom of its sponsors compelled.

The German Funds

The positive position assumed by Karl Helfferich, secretary of the treasury, opposing a sentiment in the German Reichstag for a continuation of the war and an expansion of territory, and his reasons therefor, are startling to the world.

The secretary of the treasury for Germany announced that the new German war loans would completely exhaust the resources of the nation and any further increase of the war debt would bankrupt the nation. In view of that fact Dr. Helfferich urged that it would be wiser for the Reichstag and the cabinet to exert their energies more in an endeavor to secure for Germany an honorable peace than to expend every energy toward a prolongation of the struggle. Dr. Helfferich was reinforced by General von Moltke, former chief of the general staff, who urged that the suggestions of the secretary of the treasury be adopted.

On the eve of the decisive defeat of the German navy in the Gulf of Riga encounter and the consequent failure of the plans of the army and navy to establish a military base, imperiling the whole offensive campaign in Russia, the announcement is not without deep significance.

The Reichstag and the cabinet refused to heed the advice of the secretary of the treasury and the sentiment for prolonging the war prevailed overwhelmingly.

What the fate, politically, of the men who urged adoption of methods to bring about an honorable peace will be, is a matter of doubt, but it is not improbable that they will be required to retire in favor of men more in sympathy with the war party.

Germany's gravest danger since the war began is not so much the inability of her army and navy to combat their enemies in battle, as it is the failure of the resources of the nation to prove equal to the enormous expense.

Some idea of the cost of this war to Germany may be gathered from the fact that each month in this war Germany spends more than the entire cost of the war of eighteen seventy with France.

At this terrific cost it will be seen that the bottom of any nation's exchequer would be reached in an amazingly short time. It is not remarkable, therefore, that the officials who are charged with the duty of providing the sinews of war are fearful of the ultimate result.

The Menace of Rains

From Missouri and Iowa come reports of torrential rain falls, washouts and floods entailing damage to buildings, crops and heavy loss of life unprecedented even in those seasons of the year when heavy rain falls are expected.

For August the reports of present disasters there is no parallel in the history of the country.

In this section, while the destruction of life and property owing to flood and storm has not been heavy, the damage already sustained and that threatened to growing crops are enormous.

In Ohio there is a vast amount of wheat yet in the fields unthreshed, the hay crop was not all saved, and much of it that was baled or placed in the mow was not wholly cured.

The corn in the low places is a total failure and the prospect for a heavy yield on the higher ground is menaced by the continued rains.

If the heavy yield promised early in the season is to become a reality the weather man must see to it that we have dry weather and plenty of it soon.

Never were early summer conditions more promising for crops and never were late summer conditions more menacing to our hopes of harvest.

Poetry For Today

THE WOLF.

When the babe is in his cradle and
the gudeman in his bed,
And I cover up the embers on the
hearth,
And the frost creeps in upon us with
its silent, stealthy tread,
And the snow has hid the bare,
brown face of earth—

Then the wolf that in the daytime keeps his distance, hides and
slinks,
Grows so bold that he dares to
sniffle at the door.
Is it fancy—do I sense him, through
the unprotected chinks?
Is that sound the deadly menace of
his paw?

But I push the bolts in tighter, and
I steal into my bed,
And I listen till I hear his howl
afar—
Safe at least until tomorrow, for today we have been fed,
And the Wolf of Famine leaves us
as we are!

Luke McLuke Says

If a girl's hair is naturally curly she just hates to wear a hat when she goes downtown.

No matter how far down and out a man may be he can always truthfully brag that there was a time when he rode in his own carriage.

When a man wants a new hat he goes into a store for two minutes and comes out with an up to date lid on his dome. When a woman wants a new hat she goes into a store for an hour and tries on all the "creations" and comes out with some up to date ideas to use in making over the old lid she is wearing.

A single man thinks he is up against it when he comes home with a bun and has to chase the bed around the room for a while before he can catch it. But the real pleasant sensation is that experienced by the married man who wakes up in the morning with a dead mink in his mouth and then suddenly remembers that he forgot to take that pair of elbow length gloves out of his overcoat pocket before he came home.

That longing to pay board for the other half of the world is what causes all the trouble for our half of the world. The fellow who doesn't know enough to write a capital "I" when he is writing about himself always knows enough to use a capital "I" when he is talking about himself.

Always remember that if you got all you prayed for there wouldn't be enough to go around.

The lad who gets a pass always knows that the show is rotten and always wonders why the railroad doesn't supply a better roadbed.

Adam blamed it on the woman. And when the rest of us get caught we can't think of a more original excuse.

A man often thinks of a lot of grand things he could do for his wife and his children if he didn't need the money for himself.

PENS OF THE PAST.

The Old Time Quill and the Art of Putting a Point on it.

Quill pens are no longer used except in rare old fashioned instances, but people still use "penknives"—you can see the name any day in the cutlery store windows—but they do not use them to make or mend pens. In fact, where is there a man or woman who knows how to put a point on a quill? It was once an art which every man had to master, though women were generally bad at it, as they are now at sharpening pencils.

In the old days the first question asked of a schoolmaster was the one whether he was skillful in pointing quills, for he had to sharpen the pens of his whole school and incidentally instruct his pupils in the art. Alas! There is no modern pen of steel or gold that is so smooth, so swift, so alluring as a good quill pen. The writer is very sure of that, for his father used to tell him so.

The art of handwriting has certainly declined since the quill pen went out of use. The old fellows could really write. We still pay them an unconscious tribute by calling a writer a "quill driver" and picturing the pen, whenever we have to make an abstract representation of it, as a quill.—New York Mail.

A Diplomatic Official.

During the reign of Emperor Napoleon III. he and the empress visited Normandy and had arranged to spend a couple of days at Evreux. M. Janvier de la Monte, who was the prefect, learned that the revolutionaries intended to hiss the sovereigns as they passed, and so he summoned the leaders of the movement and told them that he knew of their plot. "If you carry out your plan," said he to them, "you will get six months in prison. If you do not your friends will accuse you of cowardice and treason. As a way out of the difficulty I propose to lock you up at once until the emperor has gone." The conspirators accepted the terms offered them, and so the emperor was greeted only by cheers, as the revolutionaries, frightened at the arrest of their chiefs, had not dared to utter a sound.

Extremes in Iceland.

In Iceland nature seems to have deserted all her ordinary operations and to have worked only in combining the most terrific extremes, which her powers can command. Nor is she yet silent. After the lapse of ages the fire of the volcano still bursts out among the regions of eternal snow, and the impetuous thundering of the geysers continues to disturb the stillness of the surrounding solitude.

GREATEST OHIO STATE FAIR WILL OPEN ON NEXT MONDAY

The Ohio State Fair, which opens at Columbus next Monday, promises to be a different Fair from any ever held on the spacious grounds at Columbus. It will be a modern Fair, in a number of ways, numerous added features and many improvements on the grounds bringing it practically "up to the minute" in an entertainment way for both city and country people. In the first place there will be more race horses at the fair this year than ever before in the history of the Fair. Not only that, but there will be more race horses at the Ohio State Fair than at any other state fair held in the country this year. At the close of the Fair in 1914, many conferences were held with prominent horsemen from all over the country, seeking a method of popularizing the State Fair race meet not only with the horsemen but with the public as well. As a result of these conferences, three principal suggestions were adopted. One was that there be six divisions of the prize money instead of four; another that there be no deductions from the winners, and third, that the purses be made larger. All three of these things have been done, and the result has been more than pleasing. Patrons of the State Fair have never before seen the great number of horses which have been entered in the coming races, and of course the larger number means harder fought races and better sport for those who attend.

Another feature being made much of this year is the Automobile Show. It is interesting alike to city man and farmer, so an entire Building has been set aside for this show. There will be 40,000 square feet of floor space covered entirely with displays by auto men and accessory dealers, the largest automobile exhibit between New York City and Chicago this year. Exhibitions of how automobiles are made to help with farm work will be among the interesting things. Still another new feature this year will be the show of fine saddle and harness horses, conducted after the manner of the great show at Madison Square Garden, Louisville and other great horse centers. An offer of $2,500 in prizes has resulted in entries of horses representing the most famous strains in the world, horses valued at almost fabulous sums. The show is to be on a circuit, coming between the Cleveland and Indianapolis shows then followed by the Louisville show so that horses from East and West, now in Ohio for those events, will be

ASKS PARTITION OF CURREN ESTATE

A suit in partition involving some 465 acres of Fayette county land and one piece of property in this city, has been filed in common pleas court by Frances A. Schlesinger, through Attorney John Logan, the defendants in the case being the joint heirs of the late Melissa Curren—Mary Jane Schwartz, Sarah Ann Spangler, Maude Gertrude Curren, Jacob L. Jamison, Donna J. Schnake and Frederick H. Schwartz.

The petition recites that on August 7th Melissa A. Curren died testate, and that by a will admitted to probate August 21, she devised her real estate and personal property to the plaintiff and defendants.

The personal property of the deceased will pay all claims against the estate, the plaintiff avows, and partition of 300 acres of land in one tract and 165 acres in another tract in Concord township, and one piece of property in this city, is asked. The plaintiff claims one-fifth of the estate as devised by the will of the deceased.

Plaintiff asks that the property be divided and that her portion be set apart.

WILL USE BLOCK SYSTEM ON LOCAL BRANCH B. & O.

Manual Block System Instead of Permissive Block System to Be Used in Handling All Trains on Midland Division of the B. & O.—No Rear-end Collisions Possible.

Within a short time no rear-end collisions or head-on collisions will be possible on the Midland division of the B. & O. railroad, as the manual block system will take the place of the old permissive block system and no train will be permitted within a block while another train is still in the block.

It is understood that this new and much safer method of handling trains will be in use within the next ten days. Regarding the new method to be used, the Chillicothe News of Tuesday says in part:

"The manual block system is now being used on the main line of the division. Its introduction in the Midland is not as is reported a result of the Orient wreck, but has been contemplated, according to official information, for the past three months.

"Under the permissive block system now in use on the Midland, trains are classed as superior and inferior and eastern trains are considered superior to west-bound trains. Passengers are also considered superior to freights.

"Under the manual block system a freight train cannot follow a passenger train into the same block. It permits no train to enter a block, no matter what its direction may be when said block is occupied by another train, except the trains have a 'meet order.'

"Under the permissive system a passenger may follow a freight with caution but under the manual system this is not permitted.

"When the change takes place on the Midland, trains all over the division, with the exception of the Portsmouth district, will be run under the manual block system.

"Five new operators have been placed on the Midland, two at Grove City, two at Madison Mills and one at Sabina."

Interest in the case is doubled on account of the somewhat sensational damage suit which the defendant recently filed against Mr. J. P. ## CHOPSTICKS IN JAPAN.

How They Are Used and How They Are Served in Public Places.

The use of chopsticks is general in Japan, except among the richer classes, who have adopted European knives and forks, and, to some extent, the European cuisine. Small bowls of china or lacquered wood are the usual table equipment. After the various solid portions of the food have been lifted to the mouth with chopsticks the liquid remaining is sipped from the bowl.

In the case of rice, which would be tedious to pick up grain by grain, the bowl is often raised to the mouth and the rice shoveled or pushed in with the chopsticks. It is also customary to pour a little tea into the rice bowl after it has been nearly emptied, and in this way the few remaining grains of rice are washed down as the tea is drunk.

At public places the chopsticks at each meal must be new. This is indicated by the fact that the chopsticks are made from one piece of wood and are left joined together, as were matches at one time in the United States. These new chopsticks are incased in a thin paper envelope, sealed at the end, and bearing Japanese characters advertising either the hotel or some firm that has furnished them free to the proprietor for the sake of the publicity thus gained. Toothpicks, which are freely used by all Japanese at meals, are also inclosed in envelopes that frequently bear advertising matter.—New York Times.

EXPLOSIVES OF WARFARE.

To a Great Extent They Are a Development of Fireworks.

War is a wholesale fireworks celebration. A giant firecracker is really a dangerous bomb, and rifle grenades are but small rockets, carrying high explosives and fired from rifles. Great fort destroying projectiles look simply like gigantic rockets.

The first magazine gun was a Roman candle. The first projectile propelled by an explosive was a rocket. The first shrapnel was a bomb discharging luminous stars instead of bullets.

Modern warfare is, so to speak, a development of Fourth of July ideas.

However, gunpowder—the first explosive—was itself mere play stuff for at least a thousand years before anybody thought of using it for war purposes. It was commonly employed in China for fireworks and crackers during the earliest centuries of the Christian era. The bombs nowadays dropped by military aviators are children's torpedoes magnified to make them deadly.

Really, an incendiary bomb was the famous "Greek fire" of the crusaders.

It has been said that shrapnel is a modified fireworks bomb. It has the form of a cylinder, which, at a distance from the gun muzzle suitably timed by a fuse, blows its own head off, throwing out 250 or more lead bullets that travel on their own account with a velocity of 400 feet a second. Philadelphia Record.

Cemeteries Where Women Gossip.
Friday, the Sabbath of the Moslems when all true believers of the masculine gender make a point of going to church, their wives, sisters and daughters resort to the cemeteries and wait for the dead. But all their time is not spent in weeping, and sorrow is not the only emotion they display on these occasions. They take with them bunches and garlands of flowers and decorate the graves of their relatives and pray and weep over the dead for a time. Then when this pious duty is performed they gather in little groups and have a good time gossiping about the living. Thus the day of mourning is very popular among the Moslem women. It gives them almost the only opportunity they have of cultivating the acquaintance of their neighbors.

GREATEST OHIO STATE FAIR WILL OPEN ON NEXT MONDAY

The Ohio State Fair, which opens at Columbus next Monday, promises to be a different Fair from any ever held on the spacious grounds at Columbus. It will be a modern Fair, in a number of ways, numerous added features and many improvements on the grounds bringing it practically "up to the minute" in an entertainment way for both city and country people. In the first place there will be more race horses at the fair this year than ever before in the history of the Fair. Not only that, but there will be more race horses at the Ohio State Fair than at any other state fair held in the country this year. At the close of the Fair in 1914, many conferences were held with prominent horsemen from all over the country, seeking a method of popularizing the State Fair race meet not only with the horsemen but with the public as well. As a result of these conferences, three principal suggestions were adopted. One was that there be six divisions of the prize money instead of four; another that there be no deductions from the winners, and third, that the purses be made larger. All three of these things have been done, and the result has been more than pleasing. Patrons of the State Fair have never before seen the great number of horses which have been entered in the coming races, and of course the larger number means harder fought races and better sport for those who attend.

Another feature being made much of this year is the Automobile Show. It is interesting alike to city man and farmer, so an entire Building has been set aside for this show. There will be 40,000 square feet of floor space covered entirely with displays by auto men and accessory dealers, the largest automobile exhibit between New York City and Chicago this year. Exhibitions of how automobiles are made to help with farm work will be among the interesting things. Still another new feature this year will be the show of fine saddle and harness horses, conducted after the manner of the great show at Madison Square Garden, Louisville and other great horse centers. An offer of $2,500 in prizes has resulted in entries of horses representing the most famous strains in the world, horses valued at almost fabulous sums. The show is to be on a circuit, coming between the Cleveland and Indianapolis shows then followed by the Louisville show so that horses from East and West, now in Ohio for those events, will be

A suit in partition involving some 165 acres of Fayette county land and one piece of property in this city, has been filed in common pleas court by Frances A. Schlesinger, through Attorney John Logan, the defendants in the case being the joint heirs of the late Melissa Curren—Mary Jane Schwartz, Sarah Ann Spangler, Maude Gertrude Curren, Jacob L. Jamison, Donna J. Schnake and Frederick H. Schwartz.

The petition recites that on August 7th Melissa A. Curren died testate, and that by a will admitted to probate August 21, she devised her real estate and personal property to the plaintiff and defendants.

The personal property of the deceased will pay all claims against the estate, the plaintiff avows, and partition of 300 acres of land in one tract and 165 acres in another tract in Concord township, and one piece of property in this city, is asked. The plaintiff claims one-fifth of the estate as devised by the will of the deceased.

Plaintiff asks that the property be divided and that her portion be set apart.

RARE FLOWER ATTRACTS ATTENTION

A night blooming cereus at the home of Mr. E. O. Arbogast Tuesday evening drew spectators from every neighborhood in which it was heralded.

The rare plant had ten blossoms out, the largest number ever seen on one plant by any of last night's visitors. A light was placed on the porch enabling passers to see the plant and it was one of the most beautiful picture imaginable.

The large waxy blooms hung in graceful clusters from their leaves and the pity of it was that such beauty was doomed to perish after one night's blooming.

This plant is fifteen years old, but has never held such a large number of flowers at one time before.

RARE FLOWER
ATTRACTS ATTENTION

A night blooming cereus at the home of Mr. E. O. Arbogast Tuesday evening drew spectators from every neighborhood in which it was heralded.

The rare plant had ten blossoms out, the largest number ever seen on one plant by any of last night's visitors. A light was placed on the porch enabling passers to see the plant and it was one of the most beautiful picture imaginable.

The large waxy blooms hung in graceful clusters from their leaves and the pity of it was that such beauty was doomed to perish after one night's blooming.

This plant is fifteen years old, but has never held such a large number of flowers at one time before.

PREMIUM LIST IS GIVEN BOOST

Exhibitors at State Fair
To Receive $50,000.

OPEN DAY AND NIGHT

Beautiful Grounds Will Be Lighted by Electricity and Added Facilities Will Enhance Pleasure of Those Who Attend Ohio's Big Agricultural Show After Day's Work Is Over.

The sixty-fifth annual Ohio State Fair will be held on the beautiful grounds of the State Board of Agriculture at Columbus from Aug. 30 to Sept. 3, inclusive. The exhibition will be open day and night for the full five days, arrangements having been made for the first time to have the grounds lighted by electricity by the Columbus Electric Lighting Company. The grounds and buildings will be as light by night as by day, and visitors from a distance desiring to put as much time as possible in seeing the fair, will find the facilities largely increased this year.

The State Board of Agriculture has revised the premium list "upward," with the result that the total premium offerings are this year $55,000. Naturally this would be expected to attract exhibits that had not been appealed to before and this has been realized. The list of exhibits will be both more extensive and of a higher quality than ever before.

The Columbus Chamber of Commerce, alive to the opportunities that come with the chance to welcome thousands of visitors to the city, has taken charge of the general information service for the fair, and will maintain a tent office in the State House grounds, at which visitors, without charge, may secure information of every kind concerning both the State Fair and the city. Those desiring places to room or board, or both, while attending the fair, may here secure direction to places where such accommodations may be secured.

DIRECTOR OF OHIO'S BIG AGRICULTURAL SHOW

RENICK W. DUNLAP.

THE State Fair is one of the agricultural activities of the state that comes under control of the newly established State Board of Agriculture, but the direction of the fair is in the hands of Renick W. Dunlap, the recently elected secretary and executive officer of the board. Mr. Dunlap was chosen for this position over a number of other strong candidates and given the board's unanimous vote. He comes to his new work as no stranger to the people of the state or to the duties of his office. His two years' service in the state senate, four years in the office of State Dairy and Food Commissioner, when that office was an elective one, his prominence in the Grange and long connection with agricultural affairs in the state, have brought him to the favorable notice of the people of the state generally and especially to that of the farmers.

Mr. Dunlap comes to the office right in the prime of life. He is in his 43rd year and is a native of Kingston, Pickaway county. He was educated in the public schools of that place and at the Ohio State University, where he was a student from 1890 to 1895, graduating in the latter year with the degree of bachelor of science in agriculture. Returning at once to the farm he has at cost that will be commensurate with their means. Only reliable, clean and comfortable houses will secure listings here, so that the stranger who relies upon this service may feel sure that he will be well taken care of. Absolutely no charge will be made for any service rendered by this bureau.

For the first time at this fair there will be given this year an exclusive automobile show. One entire building, 100 to 400 feet, has been set apart for this exhibit, which is in recognition of the rapid development of the automobile for both business and pleasure, and its coming into general use by people of all classes. It will be the most complete automobile show ever given west of New York, and on this occasion, for the first time, the 1916 models will be shown.

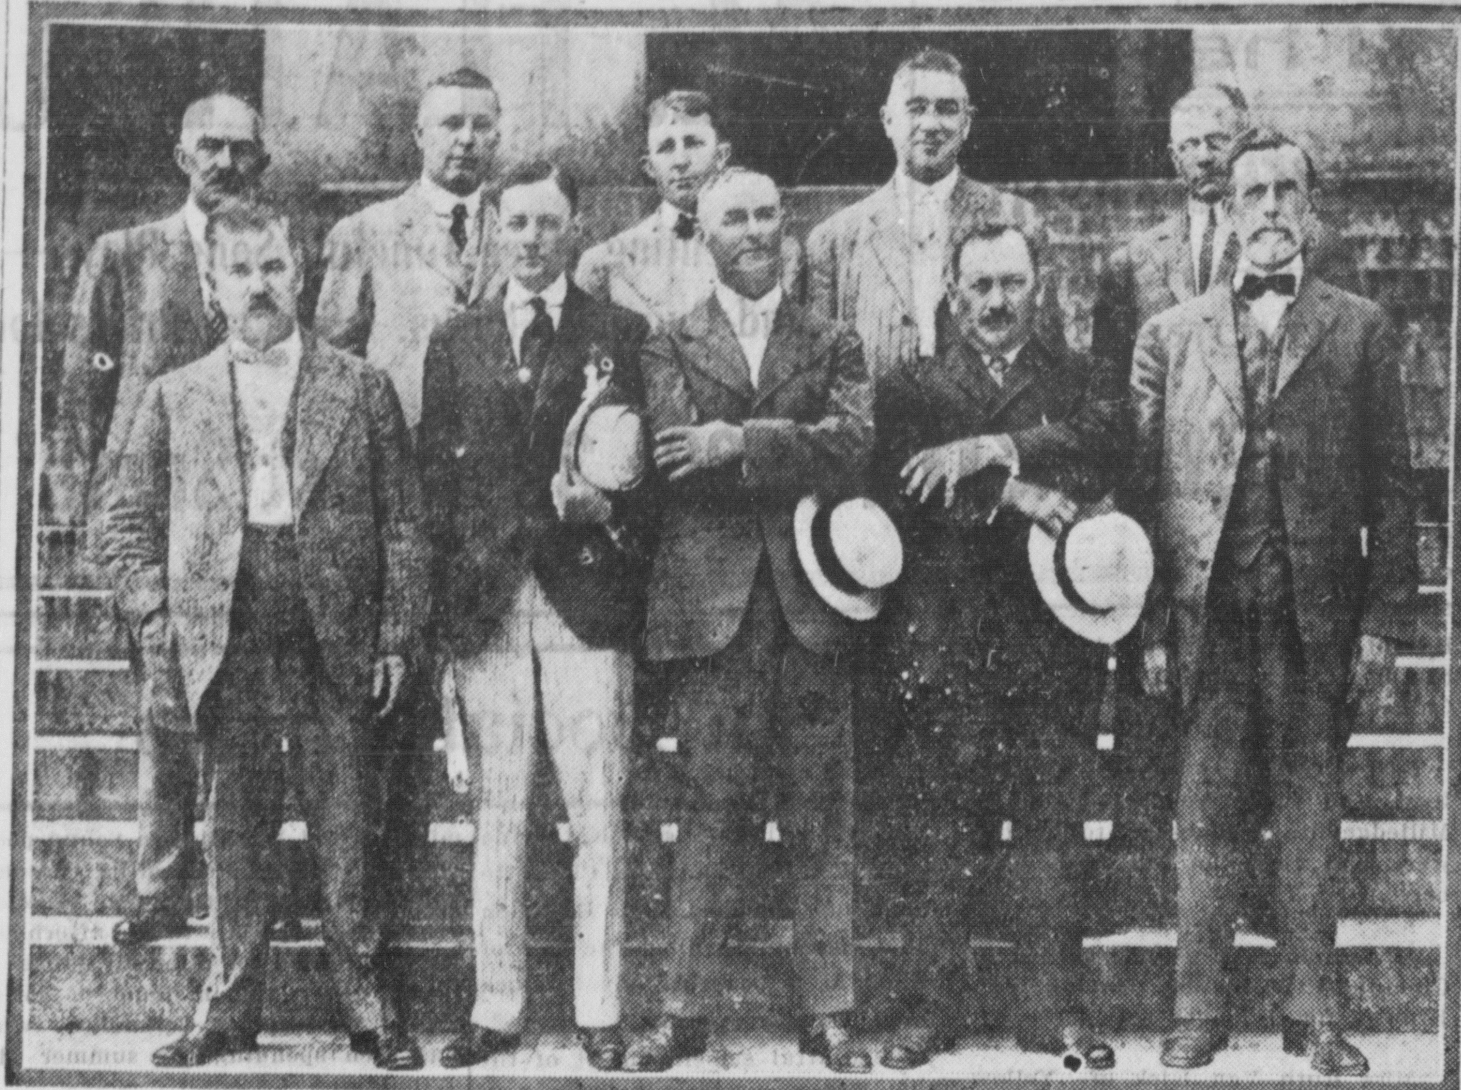

Another new feature of the fair this year will be the horse show, which will be held in the evenings, and will extend through three days—Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The automobile has not yet displaced the horse in the estimation of a great many horse-lovers in the state, who are already preparing to make the exhibition of fine horses one long to be remembered.

In the poultry department important changes have been made at the suggestion of prominent poultrymen of the state. For the first time the exhibits will be divided into young pens and old pens, resulting in fairer competition to all. For the first time also prizes are offered for pheasants and guinea fow in this department, and there will be competitive exhibits in eggs—something new in this line at the state fairs.

All available space for the exhibition of farm machinery and implements has been taken—thus promising an old-time display in this line. Farmers who visit the fair will see the latest inventions and devices in labor-saving machinery for the farmers' use. Practically all the manufacturers who withdrew from the fair several years ago have come back, indicating that they have realized that the state fair offers the best means of placing their products before the farmers of Ohio.

Both the Women's and Men's Rest Rooms have been renovated and repainted, and in the Women's Rest Room there will be a maid at the service of the guests of the fair wholly without charge. Every convenience will be found in the Men's Rest Room, and there will be in connection with them both baths and barber shops.

MEMBERS NEW STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE

First row—L. S. Myers, Akron; Donald R. Acklin, Perrysburg; C. K. Paterson, Piketon; D. D. Snider, Gratiot; John Begg, Columbus Grove. Rear row—T. D. West, Perry; Dr. J. W. Kirgan, Cincinnati; C. A. Branson, Cadiz; Newton D. Bunnell, Lebanon, and R. D. Williamson, Xenia.

In making these selections Governor Willis took counsel with the officers of the State Grange, with the leaders of the many organizations of farmers and stock breeders of the state, and men generally prominent in agricultural affairs in the state. The board will have larger powers and greater responsibility than any other such board that ever held office under the state government. The first great task to devolve upon its hands will be the direction of the State Fair.

GRANGERS TO HOLD REUNION

Event Will Be Feature of
Ohio State Fair.

BIG MEN ON PROGRAM

Several National Officers of Organization Will Address Ohio Members. Governor Willis Will Also Speak. Silk Banners To Be Awarded Granges Showing Largest Attendance at Big Gathering Sept. 1-2.

The State Grange has arranged for a reunion at the Ohio State Fair this year covering two days—Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 1 and 2. As is well known, new life and new blood have been infused into the grange organization in the state. For several years the membership has been mounting up and it is now an important factor in matters agricultural in the state, with which wide-awake and aggressive farmers are anxious to become identified. Hon. L. J. Taber, the master of the State Grange, has issued a call for the reunion, and the management of the State Fair has encouraged it by offering prizes for largest attendance. There are three such prizes offered. For the largest attendance from any local grange in Franklin county a silk flag is offered. Franklin county granges have an advantage due to location; that, of course, puts them in a class by themselves. The second prize offered is also a silk flag to be given to the grange in any other county within fifty miles of Columbus that records the largest attendance. The third is a silk flag to be given to the grange located outside the fifty-mile limit from Columbus. Registration will be the test, and so all visiting members of the grange should be sure to register their names and the names and numbers of the granges of which they are members in the book that will be provided at the reunion headquarters. Actual registration will decide the awards of the flags. These trophies will be exactly alike, of fine quality and similar to the trophy given to the champion speller of the state, as decided by the State Spelling Bee held a few months ago under the direction of the state agricultural commission.

There will be a number of notable addresses at the grange reunion—all well worth hearing, and on topics of special interest to farmers. Master L. J. Taber has invited the national grand master, Mr. Wilson of Illinois, and State Master McSparran of Pennsylvania to attend the reunion and speak to the Ohio Grangers, and both have accepted the invitation. The best program ever presented by the grange at the State Fair is now assured. Mr. Taber, the master of the Ohio Grange, will be in charge of the meeting.

In his call the state master states that the last six months have constituted the greatest period of grange growth in forty years. In that time sixty-six granges have been established and more than six thousand farmers, their wives, sons and daughters have become members.

Governor Willis has also accepted an invitation to attend the grange reunion to speak. A score of Ohio field workers will be called into action at the reunion. The reunion is to be held at Grange Hall on the fair grounds. Members of the grange who visit the fair are urged to find their way to this hall immediately upon reaching the ground and make themselves known by registering.

Fine Program.

A fine program for the two days has been arranged. On the first day, the exercises beginning at 1:30 p. m., Mrs. Harriet Dickson, lecturer of the State Grange and quite well known to members of the order generally, will be introduced as president of the day. There will be a round-table discussion of the subject, "The Grange and the Home"—those taking part after the discussion is open being Dr. Mary Anderson, John Cunningham, E. M. Kilberry, John Begg, C. F. Green, George E. Scott, George T. Watts and E. F. Cranz. The afternoon exercises will be closed with an address by Hon. John A. McSparran, master of the Pennsylvania State Grange.

On Thursday, the second day of the reunion, Hon. L. J. Taber, the master of the State Grange, will preside. The subject of the round-table discussion for this day will be "The Grange and the Farm." The subject will be discussed by F. A. Derrthick, T. C. Laylin, T. B. Smith, R. W. Dunlap and Harry Caton.

The exercises on the second day will begin, as on the first, at 1:30 p. m. The round-table discussion will be followed by an address by C. M. Freeman, the secretary of the National Grange. At 2:30 p. m. Governor Willis is to arrive and address the guests at the reunion. The program will be concluded with the address of Hon. Oliver Wilson, the master of the National Grange.

The call of the state master for the reunion closes with these familiar words: "As soon as you get on the grounds go to Grange Hall. Take your friends with you. Feel at home. It is yours. Meet and greet old friends and offer the fraternal hand to our many new converts. Don't forget the good wife. She is the best granger, the best half in your partnership, the best farmer, and will see the most of the fair. But if you can't both come, stay at home and send her."

"Remember, Brother Patrons, the farmers of Ohio and America must feed and clothe the world. The hand of destiny has opened the door of opportunity. Go in and possess the land." The first move is to boost the State Fair and the grange reunion. If you make it the greatest in the history of our state, it will prove that you are fighting for agriculture and humanity."

WORK IS DIVIDED

Members of Agricultural Board to Supervise Departments at State Fair.

The State Board of Agriculture has made the following assignment of members to be in charge of the ten departments into which the State Fair is divided:

Horse department—Don R. Acklin. Speed department—C. E. Patterson. Cattle—C. A. Branson. Swine—Newton D. Bunnell. Sheep—R. D. Williamson. Agricultural and Horticultural Products—T. B. West. Machinery—J. S. Myers. Women's Work and Art—Dr. J. W. Kirgan. Poultry—D. D. Snider.

Each member in charge will have a superintendent of the department under him, but these have not yet been appointed.

EXHIBIT OF LIVE FISH AND BIRDS.

An entirely new feature of the State Fair this year will be an exhibit of live game birds and perhaps also of live fish. Secretary Dunlap has made arrangements for such interesting exhibitions through General John C. Speaks, state fish and game warden, whose work is now under the direction of the State Board of Agriculture. Hitherto such exhibitions have been made of only mounted birds and fish. The birds will be shown in cages and the fish, if exhibited, in aquariums. In connection, the progress that the state fish and game department is making in the propagation of game birds and fish will be shown.

State Warden Speaks will also have on exhibition a large number of illegal devices for taking game birds, animals and fish that have been found by deputy wardens and confiscated under the law. In the course of a year a vast store of such illegal property comes into the hands of the state warden—mute evidence of the efficiency of the department.

STATE FAIR NOTES.

Band concerts daily.
A cattle show beyond compare.
Live stock buildings unrivalled in the world.
Beautiful displays of the fruits of Buckeye soil.

AUTOMOBILES WILL BE ADMITTED FREE AT OHIO STATE FAIR; PARKAGE PROVIDED

RECOGNIZING the general use into which the automobile has come as a means of transportation and in anticipation that many visitors to the State Fair—even from considerable distances—will this year make the trip by such conveyances, the State Board of Agriculture has decided to omit this year the fifty-cent fee that has been expected for the privilege of taking an automobile into the fair grounds. They will not only be admitted free this year, but arrangements will be made for the convenient and safe parking of the cars inside the grounds. Those who use this means of reaching the grounds may come feeling assured that all reasonable pains will be taken by the State Fair management to provide ample parking space and exit so that orderly entrance and exit from the park may be made at any time and minimum danger of injury to machines and delay in movement. This does not mean that the management is to be responsible for the absolute protection of machines from damage or theft, but that reasonable care will be taken to make this sort of property, when taken into the grounds, safe from the dangers that would naturally surround them under such circumstances.

JUDGES FACED BY HARD TASK

Schedule To Be Observed in Week at State Fair.

PROGRAM OF BIG EVENTS

Visitors Who Wish To Observe Exhibitions of Live Stock and Machinery or Speed Tests Given Information That Will Eliminate Confusion.

The following is the order of exhibition of exhibits both in the competitive and non-competitive departments at the State Fair, which will be a valuable guide for both exhibitors and visitors at the fair. Naturally exhibitors for premiums wish to have their offerings in the best possible condition at the time of the showing, and that is the best time for viewing them. Because of the great number of exhibits in the premium classes to be judged, it is necessary for the judges to begin their work promptly with the opening of the fair, and to work by schedule through to the end. ## PREMIUM LIST IS GIVEN BOOST

To Receive $50,000.

OPEN DAY AND NIGHT

Beautiful Grounds Will Be Lighted by Electricity and Added Facilities
Will Enhance Pleasure of Those Who Attend Ohio's Big Agricultural Show After Day's Work Is Over.

The sixty-fifth annual Ohio State Fair will be held on the beautiful grounds of the State Board of Agriculture at Columbus from Aug. 30 to Sept. 3, inclusive. The exhibition will be open day and night for the full five days, arrangements having been made for the first time to have the grounds lighted by electricity by the Columbus Electric Lighting Company. The grounds and buildings will be as light by night as by day, and visitors from a distance desiring to put as much time as possible in seeing the fair, will find the facilities largely increased this year.

The State Board of Agriculture has revised the premium list "upward," with the result that the total premium offerings are this year $55,000. Naturally this would be expected to attract exhibits that had not been appealed to before and this has been realized. The list of exhibits will be both more extensive and of a higher quality than ever before.

The Columbus Chamber of Commerce, alive to the opportunities that come with the chance to welcome thousands of visitors to the city, has taken charge of the general information service for the fair, and will maintain a tent office in the State House grounds, at which visitors, without charge, may secure information of every kind concerning both the State Fair and the city. Those desiring places to room or board, or both, while attending the fair, may here secure direction to places where such accommodations may be secured.

at cost that will be commensurate with their means. Only reliable, clean and comfortable houses will secure listings here, so that the stranger who relies upon this service may feel sure that he will be well taken care of. Absolutely no charge will be made for any service rendered by this bureau.

For the first time at this fair there will be given this year an exclusive automobile show. One entire building, 100 to 400 feet, has been set apart for this exhibit, which is in recognition of the rapid development of the automobile for both business and pleasure, and its coming into general use by people of all classes. It will be the most complete automobile show ever given west of New York, and on this occasion, for the first time, the 1910 models will be shown.

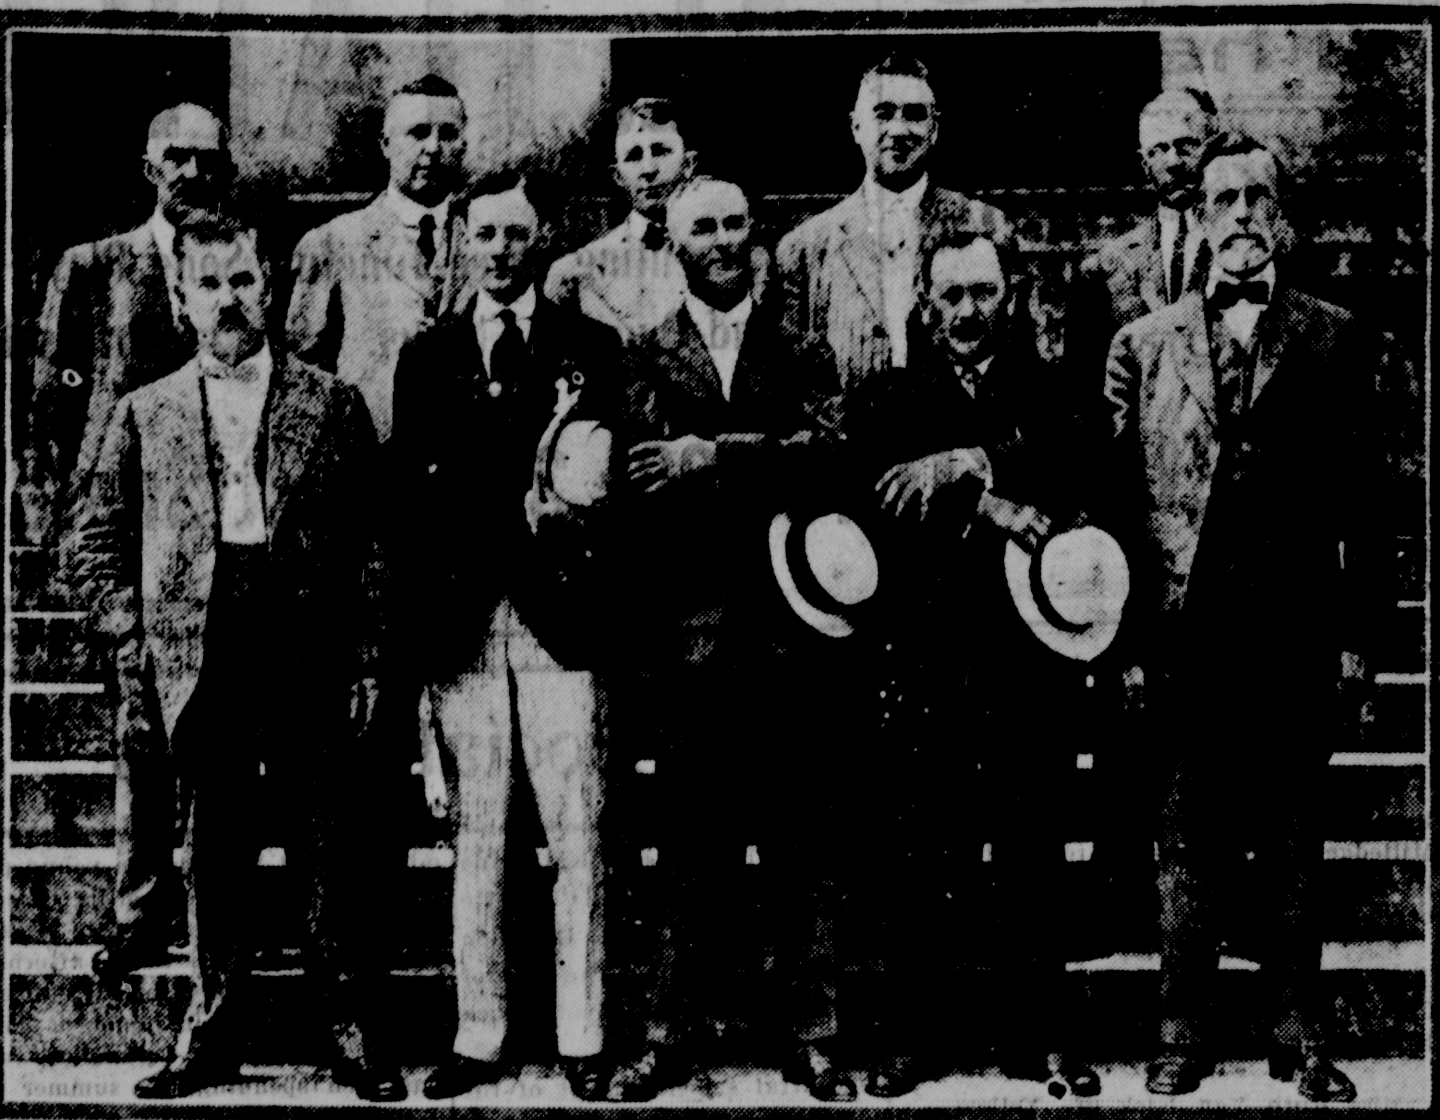

Another new feature of the fair this year will be the horse show, which will be held in the evenings, and will extend through three days—Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The automobile has not yet displaced the horse in the estimation of a great many horse-lovers in the state, who are already preparing to make the exhibition of fine horses one long to be remembered.

In the poultry department important changes have been made at the suggestion of prominent poultrymen of the state. For the first time the exhibits will be divided into young pens and old pens, resulting in fairer competition to all. For the first time also prizes are offered for pheasants and guineas in this department, and there will be competitive exhibits in eggs—something new in this line at the state fairs.

All available space for the exhibition of farm machinery and implements has been taken—thus promising an old-time display in this line. Farmers who visit the fair will see the latest inventions and devices in labor-saving machinery for the farmers' use. Practically all the manufacturers who withdrew from the fair several years ago have come back, indicating that they have realized that the state fair offers the best means of placing their products before the farmers of Ohio.

Both the Women's and Men's Rest Rooms have been renovated and repainted, and in the Women's Rest Room there will be a maid at the service of the guests of the fair wholly without charge. Every convenience will be found in the Men's Rest Room, and there will be in connection with them both baths and barber shops.

First row—L. S. Myers, Akron; Donald R. Acklin, Perrysburg; C. K. Paterson, Piketon; D. D. Snider, Gratiot; John Begg, Columbus Grove. Rear row—T. D. West, Perry; Dr. J. W. Kirgan, Cincinnati; C. A. Branson, Cadiz; Newton D. Bunnell, Lebanon; and R. D. Williamson, Xenia.

In making these selections Governor Willis took counsel with the officers of the State Grange, with the leaders of the many organizations of farmers and stock breeders of the state, and men generally prominent in agricultural affairs in the state. The board will have larger powers, and greater responsibility than any other such board that ever held office under the state government. The first great task to devolve upon its hands will be the direction of the State Fair.

GRANGERS TO HOLD REUNION

Event Will Be Feature of
Ohio State Fair.

BIG MEN ON PROGRAM

Several National Officers of Organization Will Address Ohio Members. Governor Willis Will Also Speak. Silk Banners To Be Awarded Granges Showing Largest Attendance at Big Gathering Sept. 1-2.

The State Grange has arranged for a reunion at the Ohio State Fair this year, covering two days—Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 1 and 2. As is well known, new life and new blood have been infused into the grange organization in the state. For several years the membership has been mounting up and it is now an important factor in matters agricultural in the state, with which wide-awake and aggressive farmers are anxious to become identified. Hon. L. J. Taber, the master of the State Grange, has issued a call for the reunion, and the management of the State Fair has encouraged it by offering prizes for largest attendance. There are three such prizes offered. For the largest attendance from any local grange in Franklin county a silk flag is offered. Franklin county granges have an advantage due to location; that, of course, puts them in a class by themselves. The second prize offered is also a silk flag to be given to the grange in any other county within fifty miles of Columbus that records the largest attendance. The third is a silk flag to be given to the grange located outside the fifty-mile limit from Columbus. Registration will be the test, and so all visiting members of the grange should be sure to register their names and the names and numbers of the granges of which they are members in the book that will be provided at the reunion headquarters. Actual registration will decide the awards of the flags. These trophies will be exactly alike, of fine quality and similar to the trophy given to the champion speller of the state, as decided by the State Spelling Bee held a few months ago under the direction of the state agricultural commission.

There will be a number of notable addresses at the grange reunion—all well worth hearing, and on topics of special interest to farmers. Master L. J. Taber has invited the national grand master, Mr. Wilson of Illinois, and State Master McSparren of Pennsylvania to attend the reunion and speak to the Ohio Grangers, and both have accepted the invitation. The best program ever presented by the grange at the State Fair is now assured. Mr. Tabor, the master of the Ohio Grange, will be in charge of the meeting.

In his call the state master states that the last six months have constituted the greatest period of grange growth in forty years. In that time sixty-six granges have been established and more than six thousand farmers, their wives, sons and daughters have become members.

Governor Willis has also accepted

an invitation to attend the grange reunion to speak. A score of Ohio field workers will be called into action at the reunion. The reunion is to be held at Grange Hall on the fair grounds. Members of the grange who visit the fair are urged to find their way to this hall immediately upon reaching the ground and make themselves known by registering.

Fine Program.

A fine program for the two days has been arranged. On the first day, the exercises beginning at 1:30 p. m., Mrs. Harriet Dickson, lecturer of the State Grange and quite well known to members of the order generally, will be introduced as president of the day. There will be a round-table discussion of the subject, "The Grange and the Home"—those taking part after the discussion is open being Dr. Mary Anderson, John Cunningham, E. M. Kilberry, John Begg, C. F. Green, George E. Scott, George T. Watts and E. F. Cranz. The afternoon exercises will be closed with an address by Hon. John A. McSparren, master of the Pennsylvania State Grange.

On Thursday, the second day of the reunion, Hon. L. J. Taber, the master of the State Grange, will preside. The subject of the round-table discussion for this day will be "The Grange and the Farm." The subject will be discussed by F. A. Derthick, T. C. Laylin, T. B. Smith, R. W. Dunlap and Harry Caton.

The exercises on the second day will begin, as on the first, at 1:30 p. m. The round-table discussion will be followed by an address by C. M. Freeman, the secretary of the National Grange. At 2:30 p. m. Governor Willis is to arrive and address the guests at the reunion. The program will be concluded with the address of Hon. Oliver Wilson, the master of the National Grange.

The call of the state master for the reunion closes with these familiar words: "As soon as you get on the grounds go to Grange Hall. Take your friends with you. Feel at home. It is yours. Meet and greet old friends and offer the fraternal hand to our many new converts. Don't forget the good wife. She is the best granger, the best half in your partnership, the best farmer, and will see the most of the fair. But if you can't both come, stay at home and send her.

"Remember, Brother Patrons, the farmers of Ohio and America must feed and clothe the world. The hand of destiny has opened the door of opportunity. Go in and possess the land." The first move is to boost the State Fair and the grange reunion. If you make it the greatest in the history of our state, it will prove that you are fighting for agriculture and humanity."

DIRECTOR OF OHIO'S BIG AGRICULTURAL SHOW

RENICK W. DUNLAP.

THE State Fair is one of the agricultural activities of the state that comes under control of the newly established State Board of Agriculture, but the direction of the fair is in the hands of Renick W. Dunlap, the recently elected secretary and executive officer of the board. Mr. Dunlap was chosen for this position over a number of other strong candidates and given the board's unanimous vote. He comes to his new work as no stranger to the people of the state or to the duties of his office. His two years' service in the state senate, four years in the office of State Dairy and Food Commissioner, when that office was an elective one, his prominence in the Grange and long connection with agricultural affairs in the state, have brought him to the favorable notice of the people of the state generally and especially to that of the farmers.

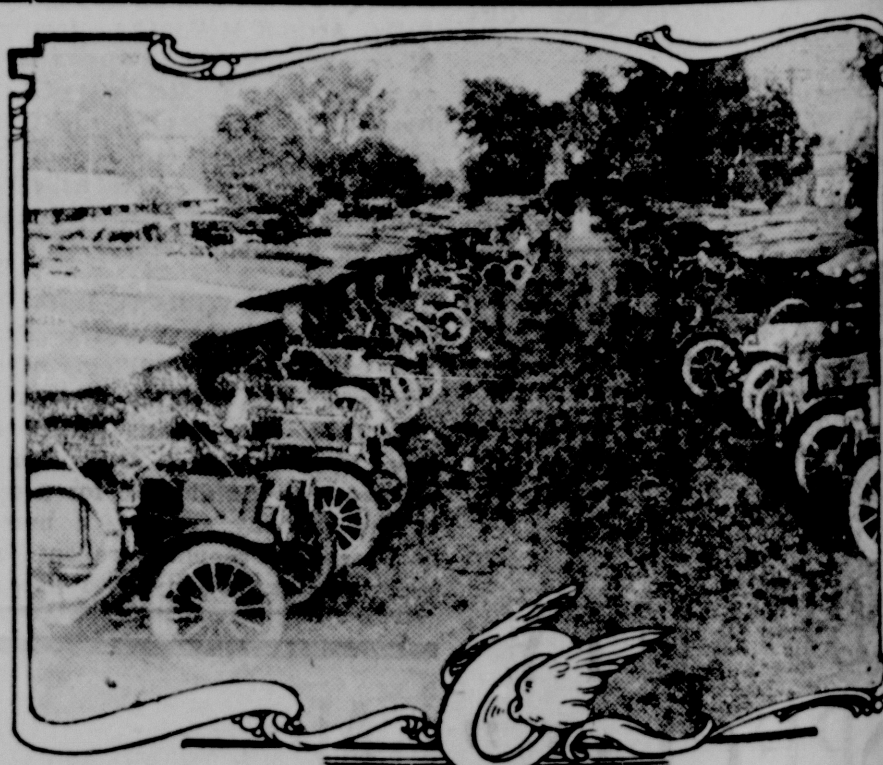

Mr. Dunlap comes to the office right in the prime of life. He is in his 43rd year and is a native of Kingston, Pickaway county. He was educated in the public schools of that place and at the Ohio State University, where he was a student from 1890 to 1895, graduating in the latter year with the degree of bachelor of science in agriculture. Returning at once to the farm he has since been engaged in the practical work of farming and is now situated on one of the largest and best farms in Pickaway county.

In his college days he was a leader in student activities—especially in athletics—and was the captain of the football team. He has taken an active interest in the alumni association ever since his graduation and has held important offices in the organization. The college of agriculture has naturally received his special attention, and his counsel and advice have been freely given and gratefully received by the college authorities. Combining his theoretical training with his practical experience on the farm, Mr. Dunlap has contributed to the fund of agricultural knowledge by both writing and speaking on agricultural matters, and his articles on farm subjects have been highly esteemed by practical farmers.

Mr. Dunlap was married June 9, 1897, to Miss Maxine Cummins. They have one child and have always made their home on the farm at Kingston. When in college Mr. Dunlap was a member of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity. He is also a member of the Grange and a Knight Templar in Masonry.

AUTOMOBILES WILL BE ADMITTED FREE AT OHIO STATE FAIR; PARKAGE PROVIDED

RECOGNIZING the general use into which the automobile has come as a means of transportation and in anticipation that many visitors to the State Fair—even from considerable distances—will this year make the trip by such conveyances, the State Board of Agriculture has decided to omit this year the fifty-cent fee that has been expected for the privilege of taking an automobile into the fair grounds. They will not only be admitted free this year, but arrangements will be made for the convenient and safe parking of the cars inside the grounds. Those who use this means of reaching the grounds may come feeling assured that all reasonable pains will be taken by the State Fair management to provide ample parking space and to police it so that orderly entrance and exit from the park may be made at all time and minimum danger of injury to machines and delay in movement.

This does not mean that the management is to be responsible for the absolute protection of machines from damage or theft, but that reasonable care will be taken to make this sort of property, when taken into the grounds, safe from the dangers that would naturally surround them under such circumstances.

LYNCHING AFFAIR IS DEEP MYSTERY

Coroner's Inquest In Frank Case Proves Fruitless.

MOB MEMBERS UNIDENTIFIED

Marietta Merchant Admits Seeing Lynchers at Work, but Testifies He Recognized None of Them—Next Step to Be Taken When the Grand Jury Meets Sept. 1—Verdict of the Jury.

Marietta, Ga., Aug. 25.—Death at the hands of parties unknown was the verdict of the coroner's jury that conducted an inquest into the lynching of Leo M. Frank.

Not one of the officials or other citizens examined threw the slightest light upon the identity of the men who took Frank from the state prison farm at Milledgeville and hanged him on the outskirts of Marietta.

Only once during the proceedings did it appear there might be a disclosure which might materially have altered the jury's conclusion. That developed during the examination of I.

A. Benson, a Marietta merchant, when the trail of the lynching party nearly was reached. Benson testified that he drove past the oak thicket while the cars of the "vigilance committee" were parked outside and presumably while the hanging was under way. Benson went so far as to say that he saw one or two of the men in the party step out of the cars in which they had ridden, dust covered, from the prison farm at Milledgeville. He testified he did not know the men.

The witness frankly stated he had a pretty strong "suspicion" of what was taking place, for he had read in the paper of Frank's abduction from Milledgeville and had been told that several automobiles had just "whizzed by," and "it looked like something was doing in the way of Frank."

There were other witnesses examined and city and county officials were called to the stand to tell of their efforts to learn the identity of the lynching party. But when the testimony was concluded there was absolutely nothing to guide the jury to any other verdict than the one which was reached in less than three minutes of deliberation.

The next step in the Frank inquiry is expected to be taken when the grand jury meets at Marietta Sept. 1. Judge Patterson of the Blue Ridge circuit will deliver a special charge and Solicitor General Herbert Clay will direct the investigation.

When to Stop Advertising.
An English journal requested a number of the largest advertisers to give their opinions concerning the best time to stop advertising, and the following replies were received:
When the population ceases to multiply and the generation that crowded on after you and never heard of you stops coming on.
When you have convinced everybody whose life will touch yours that you have better goods and lower prices than he can get anywhere else.
When you stop making fortunes solely through the direct use of this mighty agent.
When younger and fresher houses in your line cease starting up.
When you would rather have your own way and fail than take advice and win.

FINANCIAL ECONOMY.

One Man's Scheme When He Found His Capital Was Shrinking.

What one man did when he discovered his capital was shrinking is told in the American Magazine:

"A friend lent me into a secret of his financial economy which strikes me as valuable. He is of middle age, with a small family, and has an income of $3,500 a year. He has put by a few thousand dollars. His investments are in gilt edged securities.

"At the end of every six months he figures out exactly the value of his property. Each share of stock, each bond is reckoned at its present market price, and the sale value of his house is placed at the lowest figure. To the current value of his estate he adds his life insurance. The result is the capital which would be available for the support of his wife and children should he suddenly die.

"At the last three reckonings my friend found that his capital was shrinking. There had been declines in certain stocks and bonds and a falling off in the value of his real estate. What did he do? Commiserate himself? Not at all. He went to a life insurance company and took out a policy large enough more than to cover the shrinkage in his capital. Comparatively speaking, it cost him very little, but it added a neat sum to the value of his estate and guaranteed an unimpaired income to his wife."

Coroner's Inquest In Frank Case Proves Fruitless.

MOB MEMBERS UNIDENTIFIED

Marietta Merchant Admits Seeing Lynchers at Work, but Testifies He Recognized None of Them—Next Step to Be Taken When the Grand Jury Meets Sept. 1—Verdict of the Jury.

Marietta, Ga., Aug. 25.—Death at the hands of parties unknown was the verdict of the coroner's jury that conducted an inquest into the lynching of Leo M. Frank.

Not one of the officials or other citizens examined threw the slightest light upon the identity of the men who took Frank from the state prison farm at Milledgeville and hanged him on the outskirts of Marietta.

Only once during the proceedings did it appear there might be a disclosure which might materially have altered the jury's conclusion. That developed during the examination of L.

A. Benson, a Marietta merchant, when the trail of the lynching party nearly was reached. Benson testified that he drove past the oak thicket while the cars of the "vigilance committee" were parked outside and presumably while the hanging was under way. Benson went so far as to say that he saw one or two of the men in the party step out of the cars in which they had ridden, dust covered, from the prison farm at Milledgeville. He testified he did not know the men.

The witness frankly stated he had a pretty strong "suspicion" of what was taking place, for he had read in the paper of Frank's abduction from Milledgeville and had been told that several automobiles had just "whizzed by," and "it looked like something was doing in the way of Frank."

There were other witnesses examined and city and county officials were called to the stand to tell of their efforts to learn the identity of the lynching party. But when the testimony was concluded there was absolutely nothing to guide the jury to any other verdict than the one which was reached in less than three minutes of deliberation.

The next step in the Frank inquiry is expected to be taken when the grand jury meets at Marietta Sept. 1. Judge Patterson of the Blue Ridge circuit will deliver a special charge and Solicitor General Herbert Clay will direct the investigation.

PLANS AN ENTRANCE INTO CITY OF TOLEDO

If plans of the Detroit and Toledo Railroad company materialize as they are now drawn, the D. T. & I. Railroad company may gain an entrance to Toledo, according to the Toledo Blade. It is the plan of the D. T. & I. to extend its tracks to join up with the D. T. & I. road at Dundee from Petersburg, a distance of five miles.

There has been some litigation over this matter but it seems that the trouble is all straightened out now and that work will be started at once by the D. T. & I. on the new branch. This will be a great advantage to the D. T. & I. railroad, it is said, if it can gain an entrance to the city over this route.

AL. G. FIELDS WILL PLAY STATE FAIR WEEK AT HARTMAN THEATER

Many years of experimenting have proven conclusively that the ideal State Fair entertainment is a minstrel show. The clever jokes, wonderful dancing and splendid solo and ensemble singing are more nearly in keeping with the holiday spirit which the State Fair visitor feels than any other form of amusement. Thus, the Al. G. Fields Minstrels have become a fixed feature of the State Fair, playing always at the Hartman Theater, and this is particularly fitting for the reason that Mr. Fields is a life-long resident of Columbus and is very popular with the people of this section of the state. Of course he is presenting a brand new show and one which advance reports tell us is unusually good.

The opening to the regular minstrel bill is a scene on the levee at New Orleans in the palmy days of that historic spot, with the loading steamboats, the cotton bales, the roustabouts and all that went to make the levee one of the busy fanciful sights of the Crescent City. The boats, the Robert E. Lee and the Natchez are supposed to be preparing for that historic race that interested the world. The Robert E. Lee won, and in the cabin of that palatial floating palace of the western waters is presented that classic of minstrelsy, the First Part.

A host of solo singers, a chorus of as many more, a half dozen fun alluring comedians, a company of dancers unexcelled, an orchestra of soloists, a band of meritorious musicians, a program teeming with novelties, forms the most complete organization of its kind.

There will be matinees Wednesday and Saturday and particular attention is called to the remarkably low price at which this entertainment is offered.

ENGLAND'S THRONE.

As One of the Heirs to It, the German Emperor is Very Remote.

In answer to the question, "Was the emperor of Germany ever considered an heir to the English throne and did Queen Victoria have a law passed to exclude him from the succession?" the Philadelphia Press says:

"The possibility of the German emperor ever succeeding to the throne of England is so very remote as to cause little thought. There was more or less talk on the subject at the time of the marriage of the kaiser's mother to the heir to the German throne in 1838, but we are unable to find that any parliamentary action was taken even then.

"After King George came his five sons and one daughter and their children, if any; then King George's sister Louise, Duchess of Fife, her two daughters and the son of the elder; then Princess Victoria, then Queen Maud of Norway and her son, making thirteen at present living in the line of succession. After that the succession reverts to the descendants of the late King Edward's brother, Alfred, duke of Edinburgh; Arthur, duke of Connaught, and Leopold, duke of Albany. As these all married and had numerous children and grandchildren, there is a long line of heirs to the throne before the succession would come to the descendants of the oldest sister of King Edward, the late Empress Frederick of Germany, the first of which line is Emperor William."

PITCHING IN BASEBALL.

Lack of Control Will Render Useless All Other Ability.

"In my ten years' connection with the American league as umpire I have seen the fact proved again and again that control is absolutely necessary to win success," writes Billy Evans in St. Nicholas.

"The more one studies the different features of the art of pitching the more clearly does he see the value that control plays in the success of the pitcher.

"If the pitcher knows the weakness of the batter and intends giving him a fast ball on the inside and then deliberately pitches to the opposite side his knowledge of the batter is of no use to him. Lack of control has rendered his knowledge useless.

"If he knows the shortstop is to batter and then pitches a ball to the corner that makes it easy for him to hit through the position vacated by the shortstop he nullifies the strength of his infield. Lack of control is again the cause.

"If the catcher signals for a waste ball in order to be in a better position to throw out a runner trying to steal and instead he gets the ball right over the plate he is handicapping the catcher. Lack of control is again the cause.

"After all, most of the finer points of pitching are based on ability to control the ball."

Crowns by Wholesale.

It is told of one of the ancient kings of Egypt that his coronation procession occupied a whole day in passing through the city of Alexandria and that 3,200 crowns of gold were carried by the servants. One crown was three feet in height and twenty-four feet in circumference. There were also carried in the procession sixty-four suits of golden armor, two boots of gold, four and a half feet in length; twelve golden basins, ten large vases of perfumes for the baths, twelve ewers, fifty dishes and a large number of tables—all of gold. Twenty-three of the 3,200 crowns were valued at $334,400, and it is not surprising that the procession was guarded by 90,000 soldiers.

Natural Age of Man.

The question as to what is the natural age of man is by no means settled, of course, but many are of the opinion that the Frenchman Flourens was not far out of the way in his estimate of the time a man should live. Taking his observations from the group mammalia, of the class vertebrata, as having the closest resemblance to man and such species as are permitted to live the full term of their natural life under circumstances not admitting of error or doubt, Flourens found that their natural life extended to about five times the period of their lives from birth up to maturity. Applying the rule thus obtained to human life and taking the age at which the body is fully matured to be twenty years, he concluded the natural duration of the life of man to be 100 years.

Her Idea.

"The spelling book's all wrong, mamma."

"Why so, Ethel?"

Something Saved.

"What success did you have raising chickens?"

"Very little. Some escaped, thieves stole others and a large number died of a mysterious disease."

"That was tough luck."

"However, I beat the jinx to the last one."

"How was that?"

"Before anything could happen to it I had it killed and put in a pie."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Curiosity.

Gladys—Why are you going to all that trouble to open that letter so carefully, Maud? Maud—Oh, I had a quarrel with George and intended to send his letter back unopened, but I just thought I would see what he said before I returned it.

A host of solo singers, a chorus of as many more, a half dozen fun alluring comedians, a company of dancers unexcelled, an orchestra of soloists, a band of meritorious musicians, a program teeming with novelties, forms the most complete organization of its kind.

There will be matinees Wednesday and Saturday and particular attention is called to the remarkably low price at which this entertainment is offered.

ENGLAND'S THRONE.

As One of the Heirs to It, the German Emperor is Very Remote.

In answer to the question, "Was the emperor of Germany ever considered an heir to the English throne and did Queen Victoria have a law passed to exclude him from the succession?" the Philadelphia Press says:

"The possibility of the German emperor ever succeeding to the throne of England is so very remote as to cause little thought. There was more or less talk on the subject at the time of the marriage of the kaiser's mother to the heir to the German throne in 1858, but we are unable to find that any parliamentary action was taken even then.

"After King George came his five sons and one daughter and their children, if any; then King George's sister Louise, Duchess of Fife, her two daughters and the son of the selder; then Princess Victoria, then Queen Maud of Norway and her son, making thirteen at present living in the line of succession. After that the succession reverts to the descendants of the late King Edward's brother, Alfred, duke of Edinburgh; Arthur, duke of Connaught, and Leopold, duke of Albany. As these all married and had numerous children and grandchildren, there is a long line of heirs to the throne before the succession would come to the descendants of the oldest sister of King Edward, the late Empress Frederick of Germany, the first of which line is Emperor William."

PITCHING IN BASEBALL.

Lack of Control Will Render Useless All Other Ability.

"In my ten years' connection with the American league as umpire I have seen the fact proved again and again that control is absolutely necessary to win success," writes Billy Evans in St. Nicholas.

"The more one studies the different features of the art of pitching the more clearly does he see the value that control plays in the success of the pitcher.

"If the pitcher knows the weakness of the batter and intends giving him a fast ball on the inside and then deliberately pitches to the opposite side his knowledge of the batter is of no use to him. Lack of control has rendered his knowledge useless.

"If he knows the shortstop is to cover and then pitches a ball to the batter that makes it easy for him to hit through the position vacated by the shortstop he nullifies the strength of his infield. Lack of control is again the cause.

"If the catcher signals for a waste ball in order to be in a better position to throw out a runner trying to steal and instead he gets the ball right over the plate he is handicapping the catcher. Lack of control is again the cause.

"After all, most of the finer points of pitching are based on ability to control the ball."

Crowns by Wholesale.

It is told of one of the ancient kings of Egypt that his coronation procession occupied a whole day in passing through the city of Alexandria and that 3,200 crowns of gold were carried by the servants. One crown was three feet in height and twenty-four feet in circumference. There were also carried in the procession sixty-four suits of golden armor, two boots of gold, four and a half feet in length; twelve golden basins, ten large vases of perfumes for the baths, twelve ewers, fifty dishes and a large number of tables—all of gold. Twenty-three of the 3,200 crowns were valued at $334,400, and it is not surprising that the procession was guarded by 90,000 soldiers.

Natural Age of Man.

The question as to what is the natural age of man is by no means settled, of course, but many are of the opinion that the Frenchman Flourens was not far out of the way in his estimate of the time a man should live. Taking his observations from the group mammalia, of the class vertebrata, as having the closest resemblance to man and such species as are permitted to live the full term of their natural life under circumstances not admitting of error or doubt, Flourens found that their natural life extended to about five times the period of their lives from birth up to maturity. Applying the rule thus obtained to human life and taking the age at which the body is fully matured to be twenty years, he concluded the natural duration of the life of man to be 100 years.

Her Idea.

"The spelling book's all wrong, mamma."

"Why so, Ethel?"

"Because it don't look right for a little thing like a kitten to have six letters and a big cat to only have three."

—Yonkers Statesman.

Cause and Effect.

"When I sing I gets tears in my eyes. What can I do for this?"

"Stuff cotton in your ears."—Chicago Tribune.

Something Saved.

"What success did you have raising chickens?"

"Very little. Some escaped, thieves stole others and a large number died of a mysterious disease."

"That was tough luck."

"However, I beat the flix to the last one."

"How was that?"

"Before anything could happen to it I had it killed and put in a pie."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Curiosity.

Gladys—Why are you going to all that trouble to open that letter so carefully, Maud? Maud—Oh, I had a quarrel with George and intended to send his letter back unopened, but I just thought I would see what he said before I returned it.

Never.

Mr. Willis—But why don't you take your bank book in to have it balanced?

Mrs. Willis—I don't want that snoop looking cashier to know how much money I've got in there.—Pittsburgh Press.

Cynical.

"Is he a good after dinner speaker?"

"If there is such a thing as a good after dinner speaker I presume you'd call him one."—Detroit Free Press.
